

Benefits of Quikscribe Digital Transcription

- Eliminates tapes and lost tapes forever
- Allows dictation files to be instantly sent across your existing computer network or across the Internet by e-mail or FTP for transcription
- Expedites processing and return of your dictation projects in ways no tape system can
- Allows you to archive and save your original dictation file without saving tapes
- Authors can digitally review and edit, without the need of any printing

Benefits for law firms

- Record witness interviews in a non-tamperable file format, that includes automatic time and date stamp every time the recorder is stopped and started.
- Cut and paste text from other documents, including online legal research sources, and insert that text into the audio file for inclusion in the finished document. This feature alone will save you time and money sufficient to recoup your entire investment in this unique digital dictation system.
- Create multi-media court presentations or even a demand letter with full audio, graphics and documentation contained right in the audio file. Simply create your presentation and save it onto a CD, and force your opponent into settlement, because they will know you are ready for trial!
- Send audio emails (encrypted), since it is often more convenient to talk than to type.
